

The Process is the Preparation: Trusting How God Grows You

We live in a world that rewards being discovered. But God's economy runs on something entirely different: development. And development always happens in the dark. Christine Caine takes us into the darkroom – the season of delay, disappointment, and hiddenness that God uses not to hold us back, but to build the roots that will hold us up when everything shakes. This isn't a season you endure. It's a season you grow in.
